Description

The 1st place winner is Lynne with 924 votes!

"Heraldry's modern equivalent is the college sweatshirt meeting the business card—something unique to you so you can be identified from a distance! This cotehardie is of the IL019 linen with appliquéd fleur-de-lis and hare. On the OTHER side of this dress is another whole pattern with greyhounds. His garment is a surcote, worn over armor for medieval martial arts combat. So fun to make, but even more fabulous to wear! I get to teach many people about my sewing when they ask about the clothing."

Congratulations Lynne, your works really show off your unique creativity and talent! You'll be able to sew plenty more inspirational linen designs with your $250 prize to spend at Fabrics-Store.com!

Wendy with 315 votes "Spring is the start of fighting season. Rapier fighters slough off the winter by getting outside for duels and small unit combat. This is a heraldic cote made from several layers of medium weight linen, in black, potting soil, taxicab, white, crimson, natural and orange."

April with 279 votes "I wanted something different to wear to Ren Faires and SCA events (I'm a musician in a band, the Tulstin Troubadours), so I chose 15th century Flemish for its unique look and comfort. This outfit is very versatile! If it's hot, I can wear just the smock and the blue kirtle, and if it's cold, I can add the two layer overdress and tie-on sleeves. The entire overdress is lined, so I can tuck up the skirt to show off the yellow. My band's colors are green, blue, and gold, so I used IL020 Bleached for the smock and the partlet, IL019 Cobalt for the kirtle, and 4C22 in Emerald and Autumn Gold for the overdress. The tie-on sleeves are reversible IL019 Cobalt and 4C22 Emerald, which makes for nice contrasting cuffs when I roll them up. The partlet was made completely by hand, and the back of both the kirtle and overdress were pleated using double box pleats to provide extra poof without using a bumroll."
