

Warlene Rene Styling Tips: Bleached Sheer Linen Dress Four Ways

Description

Dress made with FS Bleached Sheer Open Weave Linen

A good dress is a must in my closet. I absolutely love how dynamic dresses are and I must admit I had so much fun draping this beauty. It was my first time working with this type of sheer linen. I found it very easy to create and sew with. Also, it is so beautiful!

Needless to say, options are limitless for this dress. I actually created dozens of different looks in the mirror at home so here are some I would love to share with you.

Denim tones the drama down a bit for this dress. Gives it a lighter feel. Sometimes you are just in the mood to be semi-dressy and pairing pants with dresses is a perfect way.

I designed this dress to be more of a layering piece which I have to build on. Since it is sheer I only wanted to line the bodice to keep it sweet, with just a bare hint of whatâ??s beneath as a gesture.

White trousers instantly lift this look to a polished and sleek level, perfect for a formal event. All white attire can seem very intimidating, however, it is very fitting for special occasions and a great way to stand out.

I also recently took this piece out with me on a trip to Miami, Florida for a lunch date with friends. It paired perfectly with these vintage trousers and bodysuit. What I love about this look is how versatile it is. I could have easily transitioned from lunch to dinner, transitioning easily from casual to formal. Dresses are truly dynamic and add much personality.
