If you long for simpler days yet still want to look up to date on the latest trends, why not create your own styles? It's the perfect way to fill your closet without emptying your bank account. If you're in the mood for a new piece for your wardrobe but are low on cash read on to find one of our favorite classic pieces – the wrap skirt.

Here's a foolproof plan for making a skirt that fits both your wardrobe and your pocketbook . . .

Supplies

Linen Fabric: There's a reason top designers include linen in their spring and summer collections. It is lightweight, easy to care for, and comfortable to wear. Linen also has a beautiful hand and drape, making it an ideal choice for a warm weather skirt.

You will need about 2 yards of linen for each skirt you make. This skirt has a drawstring, so it is fully adjustable and will fit most sizes.

Other supplies

- * Sewing machine and accessories (this project can be sewn by hand, but it will take longer to finish)
- * Fabric marker
- * Yardstick and fabric marker or rotary cutter, ruler and mat
- * Scissors
- * Pins
- * Iron and pressing surface
- * Hand sewing needle and thread
- * Safety pin
- * 2 wide satin ribbon to match linen, 2 yards

Directions:

Note: This project uses a 1/2 seam allowance. You will measure the fabric and pin, and then sew your skirt. This project is great for a beginner'there are no pattern pieces to worry about, and making it to your own measurements allows you to make a custom fit.

1. Wrap the fabric around your waist: Wash and dry the linen fabric, then wrap the fabric around your hips or the hips of the person you are making the skirt for. You will want to be sure that the skirt is large enough to slip off easily but not so large that it will bunch up.

2. Mark the fabric: Use a fabric marker to mark your desired width, making sure the skirt is comfortable at the widest part of your hips.

3. Cut the fabric: Remove the fabric, and lay it on a flat work surface. Use a yardstick and marker to extend your line from the top to the bottom of the fabric. Cut along the line.

Tip: You can use a rotary cutter and ruler to get the perfect cut every time. If you don't have one, you can use a ruler and yardstick to measure your fabric, then cut with scissors.

4. Prepare the skirt for sewing: Lay out the fabric onto a smooth surface with the right sides facing inward. Then pin the side of the skirt to ensure straight stitching later on.

5. Sew the side seam: Using a small stitch, begin to sew a simple '½ inch seam down the skirt's side and then turn the skirt right side out. This will give you a large tube of fabric. Press the seam.

6. Make the waistband: Flip the skirt's waistband under '½ of an inch and iron – this will offer a sturdy seam without the stabilization of pins. Turn the seam over once more and sew in place.

7. Add the drawstring: From the middle of the waistband cut a tiny slit into the enclosure thread the satin ribbon through. This is done by scrunching the waistband up and then pulling the drawstring through with a safety pin.

Try on the skirt to decide how long you want it to be. If you need to, trim off any excess fabric by marking and cutting with scissors. Be sure to leave an extra inch for hemming.

8. Finishing: Press a '¼ inch seam into the hem. Flip the hem under another inch and sew using a straight stitch. Pin this hem in place, and sew by hand or machine to finish.

Next steps:

* Use ribbons, buttons, or contrasting fabric to embellish the top or bottom of your skirt.

* The wider your fabric tube is, the fuller your skirt will be. You can create very different looks by simply altering the width and length of the skirt.

When it comes to fashion, looking good doesn't have to break the bank. With a little creativity, a few stitches and a little practice you can look your best for less.
